Documents titled “Northeast Community Centre Community Survey Key Findings” and “NE Community Centre Multiculturalism Advisory Committee Presentation and Discussion” were circulated on-table.

The Committee considered the following focused questions:

- What do you think are the current challenges facing NE community members with regard to accessing wellness and culture needs?
- What do you believe are the top 3 needs for community centre programming from a multicultural perspective, in Northeast Coquitlam?

Discussion ensued relative to the following:

- The possibility of staff teaming up with Library Link to engage with participants attending events at the Smiling Creek Activity Centre
- The proximity of the proposed new facility to the Burke Mountain Fire Hall and local schools planned for in the northeast area
- The desire to incorporate green design technologies within the facility to reduce its carbon footprint
- The belief that the current challenges facing northeast community members are having to travel and the need for a safe place for youth
- The desire for community members' children to have a local place to experience the culture of their heritage outside the home
- The belief that teenagers and youth require greater entertainment opportunities and the availability of those opportunities immediately following school hours is crucial for working parents
- The desire for additional drop-in programs and increased hours for children and youth at existing City facilities
- The belief that the proposed facility will need to be vibrant, interesting and multi-functional so that it appeals to all ages
- The belief that there is not enough current library space in the City to meet the current needs of residents
- Some of the challenges of finding good public swim times versus pool reservations
- The belief that affordable youth recreation and entertainment programming is vital for parents
- The desire that the indoor winter programming for seniors mimic what is available during the summer months
- The observation that newcomers can find it challenging to adapt to their new community if they do not speak English
- The opportunities offered to newcomers through SHARE's English practice groups and the information available on the Coquitlam Public Library website
- The observation that, from a youth perspective, the cost of using recreation facilities can be challenging
- The desire for free, social events in Coquitlam for youth and young adults
- The popularity of the current drop-in youth programming at the Poirier Sport and Leisure Complex
- The belief that all people need a gathering place to "unplug" and the possibility of offering newcomers a space to learn English and socialize
- The belief that youth newcomers may not be aware of the City's recreation programs and the suggestion that promotions targeting youth newcomers could be undertaken by, or in collaboration with, the School District

- The belief that it would be beneficial for the City to establish a liaison position to the School District to promote the after-school programming available to youth at local community and recreation facilities
- The alignments between the education occurring in schools, community and recreation facilities
- The desire for bus service in the northeast area and the discussions underway with TransLink
- The comparison between the space available in homes of the past versus modern-day homes, and the observation that community recreation and library spaces are now doubling as people's second living rooms and social hubs
- The desire to ensure that neighbourhood centres act as community hubs where residents can live, work, shop and play, all within convenient proximity of one another

The Chair encouraged the Committee to provide additional input to the Committee Clerk by email and thanked staff for their presentation.
