Make a Splash at Coquitlam's Spray Parks

Coquitlam opened its ten spray parks earlier than scheduled to help local residents stay cool through the unseasonably warm temperatures. Eagle Ridge Outdoor Pool will open for the season on June 3, also earlier than originally scheduled. Work is also underway to ensure that the Wading Pool at Blue Mountain Park is ready for its scheduled opening on June 17.

Coquitlam Adopts New Economic Development Strategy

Coquitlam has a new vision for a local economy that promotes a responsible future with shared prosperity thanks to the adoption of a new Economic Development Strategy.

Council gave unanimous approval last night to the document, which outlines steps to create a vibrant regional and cultural hub north of the Fraser River that is a desirable place to live, visit and do business. The Economic Development Strategy is a forward-looking document that outlines a vision and specific goals and strategies that the City will undertake to support the development of a resilient and sustainable economy that works for everyone.

The final Economic Development Strategy and all of its related components are available to read at coquitlam.ca/EconomicStrategy.

Improvements to Coquitlam's Percy Perry Stadium

From mid-May until fall 2023, Percy Perry Stadium at Town Centre Park will be closed while replacements and improvements take place to the rubber track and artificial turf field at the centre of the track.

In order to maximize cost efficiencies and limit disruption to these key recreational amenities, both the track renewal and artificial turf replacement are planned to be completed at the same time.
