City of Coquitlam
Multiculturalism Strategy and Action Plan

Acknowledgements

This project was made possible by a grant from Citizenship and Immigration Canada along with matching funds from the City of Coquitlam. Mayor and Council supported the development of the Multicultural Strategy and Action Plan through their leadership and participation in the project activities, committees, and advisory groups.

Community leaders and organizations provided their input and direction in shaping the vision, goals, objectives and strategies of the plan. Development of the Multicultural Strategy and Action Plan also involved Council’s Multicultural Advisory Committee, whose understanding of the community and commitment to multiculturalism in Coquitlam shaped both the overall direction as well as specific actions within the plan. Development of the plan was also guided and shaped by the experiences, opinions and statements of many immigrants, established residents and staff who willingly shared their experiences and views for enhancing Coquitlam as a welcoming and inclusive community. The plan is infused with their expertise and experience and their ability to identify and build the supports required by a culturally diverse community.
Introduction

Cultural diversity has been a longstanding hallmark of the Coquitlam community, beginning with the First Nations people and followed by the early settlements at Fraser Mills and Maillardville. With nearly 40% of Coquitlam’s current population born outside of Canada and at least 37 different first languages spoken in the homes of residents, the ability to effectively deal with a multicultural population is a key component of how the City of Coquitlam does business.

Multicultural linkages enrich our community and offer opportunities to create new connections. Communities that are best able to create a welcoming and inclusive environment will be positioned to receive new populations and investment and create rich, harmonious environments that value difference.

With the assistance of a matching grant from Citizenship and Immigration Canada, Coquitlam has prepared the Multiculturalism Strategy and Action Plan (the Strategy) to guide the organization in adapting business practices and refining approaches to respond to an increasingly culturally diverse community. It is acknowledged that the City is only one partner in responding to multiculturalism and that senior governments need to take the lead in establishing necessary legislation and guidelines and in providing appropriate resources in this area.

Background

To develop the Strategy, project work was divided into three phases:
- Phase 1 – “Taking Stock”;
- Phase 2 – “Development of Community Vision”; and
- Phase 3 – “Strategy and Action Plan Development”.

Phase 1 - “Taking Stock” exercise involved reviewing the City’s historical and current activities and strategies related to multiculturalism and diversity, providing an overview of key demographic trends and facts and identifying all currently delivered programs and services specifically designed for new immigrants and refugees within Coquitlam. This information was published in a “Guide to Programs and Services for Newcomers to Coquitlam” on the City’s website.

Phase 2 - “Development of Community Vision” focused on gathering input from City representatives, a Project Advisory Group comprised of key community stakeholders, the Multiculturalism Advisory Committee comprised of residents and from focus groups with recent immigrants to develop a united and agreed-upon Vision Statement and Goals to inform the development of the Strategy. Also included in this phase was a survey of City staff which provided an understanding of staff’s perceptions regarding existing multicultural policies, practices and behaviours at City Hall and within the broader Coquitlam community.

Phase 3 - “Strategy and Action Plan Development” involved the City’s Project Team composed of City staff and the Project Advisory Group working through a strategic planning process that informed the development of the Strategy, with input from the Project Advisory Group and the Multiculturalism Advisory Committee.
Strategy
This Strategy is designed to improve and refine municipal practices to be more welcoming and inclusive of the many cultural backgrounds that are represented in the Coquitlam community. It is intended to add a “cultural diversity lens” that takes into account the needs and opportunities presented by an increasingly culturally-diverse community in the day-to-day practices of the organization. As such, many of the actions in the Strategy will be incorporated into existing City practice and will not require significant new resources.

The Strategy is guided by a vision and is organized into three themes that are supported by corresponding goals, objectives and actions. The process of creating the Strategy in itself generated change within the day-to-day practices of the organization and builds on practices already in place to connect and serve our culturally diverse community. A two-year plan of action, which includes some actions that are already part of departmental work programs, is outlined.

The Strategy focuses on key strategic opportunities in creating change within the organization. The actions are identified as ‘A’, ‘B’ or ‘C’ priorities according to their potential to create positive change, the resources required to implement, and the ease with which each action might be achieved.

Resourcing
The focus of the Strategy is on practical, achievable steps to that create a “cultural diversity lens” in order to stimulate change throughout the organization without the need for significant new resources. As part of its work program in 2011-2013, Community Planning will coordinate and work with departmental representatives to implement the Strategy. Staff resourcing requirements from each department are expected to be moderate, although some of the proposed actions require resourcing for consulting services. Actions requiring additional resourcing scheduled for 2011 (including the Welcome Event for new and recent immigrants planned for September 2011) will be funded out of the City’s contribution under the matching grant agreement with CIC. These funds were set aside in 2008. Actions scheduled for 2012 will require a moderate budget request.

Progress Reporting
Annual implementation progress reports will be completed at in mid-2012 and mid-2013 Community Planning and presented to Council.

Conclusion
The Multiculturalism Strategy and Action Plan will enable the City to increase its cultural competence by emphasizing the continuous process of shared learning, communicating, and understanding cultural strengths in both the City organization and broader Coquitlam community. Through the implementation of the Strategy, the City will demonstrate an ongoing commitment to enhancing its programs and services to serve a continually evolving and highly diverse community.
